"DON'T WE LUV ?"

A funny-looking old fellow, gray-haired, wrinkled face, and evidently about sixty years of age, entered the City Hall of a Western esty the other day, with a girl of eight cen hang-ing on his arm. He had on an old fashioned black coat, with a double row of buttons up and down, a Greeley plug hat, new buckskin gioves, and a severe attempt had been made to get up a "shine" on his cowhide boots. The girl had gay ribbous on her hat, a blue shawi, green kids, and a white dress on, and the two attracted attention at once. No one had an idea that they were husband and wife until the old man stopped a passing policeman and

"My wife, mister. Just got married Sunday, and we want to look around the courthouse a little.

She reached out and "shook" with the officer, and the old man tooked pleased as he "Didn't I tell you, Lucy, that folks in De troit would all notice you? You didn't do so bad when you married the old man, eh?" "So you have just entered the state of matrimony, have you?" asked the police of

"I don't know anything about your matrimon," answered the old chap, "but I know we've just been married, and I'm the happiest old sunflower in the States—ch, Lucy?" "Married for love, I suppose?" queried the

"Luv, and nothing else" replied the old man. "I was struck with her—she with me, and we spliced. I'm gettin' a leetle old, and I 'spose I'll make a baby uf her; but Lucy's a good girl. She can put on style with anybody, or she can flop a mop around as good as any woman in America. She feels a little shy, and I thought I'd introduce her to some of the big bugs. I am bound she shall go in the best society or none."

The officer sent them down the hall to the Mayor's office. The bride hung back, but the old man passed his arm around her and

"Come along, Lucy, you've got heaps of and I'll risk you along with anyboby in De-

As they entered the Mayor's office, the clerk came forward and asked what was wanted, and being told that they would like to see his Honor, they were informed that the gentleman was

"Oh, well, it don't make any great differ ence," said the old man. "This is my wife, mister-inst got married.'

"Happy to congratulate you," said the clerk as he shook hands.

"She's a leetle shy," continued the old man pinching his wife's ear, "but that's the way with 'em all. Lucy's a mighty good girl, and she worked out at two doliars per week and bought all her wedding duds. Say to the Mayor that we called: wish he had been

They went out and wandered about for a while, the old man keeping his arm around her, and finally they entered the city clerk's office. A lawyer happened to be standing near the door, and walking up to him the old man

"Mister, my wife. Looking around a little, and thought I'd drop in and introduce her." The bride and lawyer shook hands, the lawyer wondering what it all meant, and after a paintul pause, the old man said:

"She's a little shy, but she's just old light ning after she gets acquainted. I told her she might as well step in and make friends while we are here. If you ever come our way we'd "I shall be glad to," replied the lawyer, and they went out to drop in on the city attorney. He was out, but the clerk received them with a bland smile which went right to the old man's "Folks all well?" inquired the husband as he shook hands, and then turning and bowing he said:

"My wife, mister. You can see for yourself he's a little shy, but it'll wear off bime-

"Come to see the City Hall?" inquired the clerk. "We're on our wedding tower around," replied the old man. "Married Sunday night, and I thought I'd take her around a leetle afore we settle down. Lucy's a powerful good girl, stranger, and she's cream and sugar on keeping house. You don't find no dirt in the corners, and no cordwood under the bed. It's a case of luv from the start. "I call her 'darling' and she calls me 'dear hubby,' and I'd lay my life down for her as quick as a wink.

About four o'clock the same couple were seen at the Central depot, waiting for a train. The bride sat on one of the old man's knees, both his arms around her, and he was heard to say :

"I don't care a gin what folks think-don't we luv!"

POLITENESS AND SMOKING. - The late John Van Buren used to tell the following anecdote on himself: He said that he was riding on one occasion in a stage coach (before railroads were in existence in that part of the country) from Kuderhook to Albany, all alone, and smoking a eigar. After they had travelled a little distance on the road an old man got into the stage, and he thought he would be polite enough to ask the stranger if smoking was agreeable to him. The stranger answered, Yes, it is agreeable. Smoke away. I have often thought if ever I was rich enough I would hire some loafer to smoke in my face. Mr. Van Buren threw his cigar out of the

J. H. ZEILIN & CO. Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia.

The symptons of Liver Complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general costive, s metimes alternating with lax. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable loss of memory, accompanied with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Often complaing of weakness, debility, and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most in-

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the Liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured Want of action in the Liver causes Headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Chills, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palminti acceptance of the country of the countr pitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for 40 years, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

The Clergy. "My wife and self have used the Regulator for years, and testify to its great virtues."—Rev J. R. Felder, Perry Ga.
